

The hip carry

Put on the sling, the rings lying in front of your shoulder.

Let your baby slide down from your shoulder into the pouch and onto your hip ...

... and spread the fabric out making sure your child is covered from his knees up to his back.

For older children spread the fabric till it reaches their armpits, a small baby should be covered up to his ears.

Make sure the fabric is spread out over your shoulder.

Pull on the upper edge to tighten it and do the same with all sections of the sling ...

... down to the lower edge. This ensures the DidySling will closely embrace your child.

Your baby should now sit in the hip straddle position, his bottom ideally a bit lower than his knees.
